Dear Brim:

We have made a check on [redacted] application for a position, and, while our personnel people considered him an outstanding person from the standpoint of personality and ability, they felt that he lacked the necessary experience to fill their requirements. We have shopped him around the Agency, but there is no position at this time for which Mr. [redacted] is qualified.

Dear Brim:

Thank you for your letter of 19 April and for your very pleasant remarks. At the risk of needling a little bit, I would like to say that I agree with Blackey that getting pleasant remarks from you is like getting blood out of a stone, but any way you know I appreciate them!

As regards your friend, [redacted] his papers are being passed around the office now, and we should know in the next few days whether or not we can find a place for him. I will give you the dope on that as soon as all the people here are finished.

Janie joins me in the best to all the Campbell family.

Sincerely,
